We would call the attention the adversement of new goods daily expected by Bark Ka Mol, and the assortment of lumber offered by Messrs. - Also to the sale of dwelling houses, by Mr.

Adams, on the 22nd. 1 By an advertisement in to-day's paper, it will be seen that His Highness Chas. Kansina cauions the public against trusting his late secretary, who, we are informed, has been endeavoring to raise money on a forged order or note for $2,500, purorting to have been drawn by Mr. K. ALFALYA. -The quantity of this grass cropped on n acre in California is very large, as will be seen by he following item: From 50 acres of alfalfa near Visalia, last year, the yield was 300 tops of baled hay, valued at $4,500, and 100 tons of loose hay, worth $790, besides furnishing pasturage for 100 A stabbing affray occurred in a lane opposite Kukul place, on Saturday night, between two drunken sailors belonging to the Bark Camden, in which one was dangerously wounded and has been taken to the Queen's Hospital. The other was arrest. ed and locked up to await the result of the wounds in-

Navat. - The U.S. ship Tuscarora, Capt. Miller, arrived at Sydney February 28, having visited Enderbury Island, the Fijis, and Brisbane. She would leave Sydney during March for Auckland, returning to Honolulu via the Navigator Islands. She may be expected here during May. Her officers took soundings during the voyage, but we have seen no report of what was accomplished. Owing to the strict precautions taken by the duced from the steamer, Mikato, though some predicted that it would spread. On the arrival of the Mikado at Kandavu, she went into quarantine as when here. The last P. & O. The mail steamer City of San Francisco will be due this afternoon, if she started on the 29th, as is supposed. She made the run down to January in seven days and 11 hours, and with these strong trades she ought to beat that, which is the shortest time on record.

- As the railroad over the Rocky Mountains has been frequently blocked with snow during March, it is possible that she did not start promptly.

Without the help of the valuable atesm apparatus which it has, this could never have been done. The proprietor, Mr. Renton, has shown as much enterprise, if not more, than ever the form or proprietor did, and is ready for, any jobs in his line, large or small.

We understand that His Excellency the Attorney General has leased the residence of Mr. Chas. Gray on the plain, and will move thither next week. Mr. Gray has made this one of the prottiest places in the city. We notice that Mr. Alex. Young has able part of the city, for residences, and the vacant lots are been rapidly taken up on the plain, by persons intending to build thereon. She left again on Sunday about 7 P. M. carrying 230 persengers 42 of whom went abourd at this port. About four o'clock, the band came on the wharf and played a number of airs, much to the delight of the passengers and of the large crowd assembled to witness the steamer's departure. Just before the vessel moved from the wharf, a gentleman (Mr. H. H. Hall we believe) thanked the band for its attendance on this occasion, and said that it afforded the best evidence that a stranger could wish of the advanced. state of civilization here. He then proposed three cheers for King Kalakana and the people of Honotala, which were heartily given from the crowded decks of the steamer. The band's concert was a pleasant incident in the visit of the Granada here, and probably afforded her passengers much pleasure. while it will give them a happy memory of the place.

engaged in raising this breed of goats, will be interested in learning any particulars of the value of their wool and skins. We find the following in the Alta, which states that there are now 26,000 pure Angora goats in California: The company engaged in the manufacture of carriage robes and gloves from the pells and skins of the Angora gouts at San Jose, find a good market and Angora gouts at San Jose, find a good market and is extending its business. The pelts are nicely dyed, and are coming into use as a substitute for fur trimmings of ladies' Winter dresses. The California Agriculturist says: The uniton is as good, some say better, than that of the sheep, and the pelts are much more valgable for tanning. The common goat skin is little better than the sheep skin, but the Angora skin is fine grained and very strong. * * * The workinen can tell by the teel of the tanned skins whether the goats were half, three-fourths or seveneights Angora, also by the looks, so striking is the difference. The skin is not so thick and rough—it is fine, soft and tongh. For strings and belt-laceings they are found to be very excellent, and are being largely used already. * * There is about one half the increase of every flock that are males, largely used already. There is about one half the increase of every flock that are males, and as they are not used for breeding, unless the motair is very fine, they are killed at from six months to two years old for mutton and pelts. The halfand three fourths breed goat skins are now worth from three fourths breed goat skins are now worth from forty to sixty cents each for tanning. The finer breed puls are worth seventy five cents to three dollars each for making into robes, trimmings, etc. * * * It is estimated that there are now 240,000 grade. Augura goats on this coast, but probably 200,000 is nearer the mark. This number will soon increase to one million, and as they increase in numbers so do they increase in parity, as only pure breed bucks are used for breeding purposes. No less than ourfourth of the entire number will have to be slain annually, on an average.
